In an education system that is becoming ever more complex and fast-paced, what is the role of values like authenticity, origin and tradition?

They are the foundation that our forefathers laid 80 years ago, when the company was a sawmill with 15 employees, and have remained a top priority for us personally, as well as for A2S Furnishing Systems as a company.

We approach the development and manufacture of school furniture with this same level of care. This is because we know that the right furniture makes everyday school life easier for everyone.

We help students learn by creating effective learning environments.

Our research-inspired classroom furniture and applications increase student and teacher engagement, connection and well-being. Plus, they support the multiple ways that teachers teach.

Our Research Methodology

- Focus on understanding the entire educational ecosystem, so schools can create effective learning environments.
- Observe workarounds in existing classrooms using video-ethnography and photos.
- Install furniture prototypes into classrooms to gauge behavioral changes.
- Interview key stakeholders- like students, teachers, administrators, occupational and physical therapists, cleaning crews and installation teams.

Built for Learning.

Back in 1905, Smith System was a different company than we are today. We built heaters for one-room schools. And then water fountains – and lavatory systems. It was a simple mission – keep kids warm, hydrated and clean, so they could focus on learning. But we soon discovered that, beyond those basic needs, there were other ways we could help. The more we worked for schools, the more we saw an ever-evolving environment that needed a furniture maker to nurture the change. So, we stepped in.

What's cool is that our original purpose never stopped guiding us. We still come to work every day to serve the “one-room schools.” Because in reality, every student learns a little differently, every teacher teaches a little differently and every classroom needs a unique solution.

We believe (with a heck of a lot of passion) that every student and teacher deserves the best possible space to inspire learning. And that's what led us to what we are today: A company designed to deliver on the needs of education better than anyone else in the industry.

What teachers do day in, day out, flat-out humbles us. And we believe the right tools have a seriously positive impact for them. For us, those tools are seats, desks, commons areas, storage units and anything else that inspires better learning. Flexibility, versatility, comfort, style. It all matters. Because at the end of the day, it supports one cause. To enable the genius inside every student.

And because of that, we don't make school furniture as part of what we do. It's the only thing we do.
